SUBJECT: Evidence for Determining a Father's Liabilities in a

Paternity Case

The Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, Public Law 104-193 (PRWORA or Welfare Reform), amended Section 466(a)(5)(K) of the Social Security Act [42 United States Code 666(a)(5)(K)] to define what constitutes proof for certain support and paternity establishment costs. 466(a)(5)(K) specifies that bills for pregnancy, childbirth, and genetic testing are admissible as evidence without requiring third-party foundation testimony and constitute prima facie evidence of amounts incurred for services or for testing on behalf of a child.

Prima facie evidence is evidence that is considered to be true unless it is disproved by contrary evidence.

Section 26 of House Bill (HB) 161 amended Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 406.021(3) to conform to this paternity requirement. This statute was changed to add: testing, pregnancy, and childbirth without requiring third party foundation testimony shall be regarded as prima facie evidence of the amount incurred."

This amendment to KRS 406.021(3) removes the need for third-party foundation testimony to verify costs for prenatal care, birthing expenses, and genetic testing fees. However, this amendment does not change the current procedure of obtaining information to determine the total amount of reimbursement due Medicaid. material listed after cross references 1, 2, and 3 at the end of this release provides information about determining the amount due Medicaid for prenatal care and birthing expenses for a Medicaid recipient.
